Stagecoach wins first rail franchise — South West Trains

Stagecoach has been awarded the seven year franchise to operate South West Trains, the first part of the Government's rail privatisation scheme to enter the commercial sector. The SWT network runs from Waterloo Station in London and links 200 stations through the capital towards the south west, principally in Surrey, Hampshire and Dorset. The company operates 1022 vehicles and employs 4000 staff. In the year to 31 March 1995 it made a pre-tax loss of £0.3m after financial support on revenue of £245.3m. Completion of the transaction is under the agreement that SWT will have no assets or liabilities at the time of its acquisition.

Also under the terms of agreement between Stagecoach, the Office of Passenger Rail Franchising and British Railways Board, SWT is to be acquired for a nominal consideration but Stagecoach has to satisfy guarantees of up to £42m in support of SWT's obligations under the franchise agreement. These provide a bond of £21m, a capital subscription of £0.1m and a holding company guarantee of £20.9m. The franchise agreement allows Stagecoach to receive OPRAF support of £54.7m (1995/96 prices) in 1996/97 declining to £40.3m in the last year of the franchise, subject to movement of the retail price index, to support its obligations under the agreement. Completion is expected before 31 March 1996.

Stagecoach's immediate plans for improving services include the provision of dedicated bus feeder services, initially in the Romsey and Borden areas, plus the investment in improved station facilities and passenger information.

Commons Transport Committee calls for bus regulator

The Commons Transport Committee has issued a report, 'The Consequences of Deregulation', on the bus industry since deregulation which describes services in some areas as 'in chaos.' The CTC is made up of MPs from all parties and is calling for introduction of a bus regulator to end these situations, as the current methods operated by the Office of Fair Trading were 'unsatisfactory and needed to be changed.' It also cast doubts on the suitability of services being operated under a franchise scheme and rejects the ideas of VAT on bus fares or the capping of fuel duty rebate as having negative effects on the economy and increasing living costs.

The MPs believe a regulator could prevent the registration of predatory services and intervene to stop anti-competitive behaviour. He would have the power to revoke licences for repeating offenders, impose penalties against predators and award compensation to victims. In the event of no competition he could cap fares.

Stronger powers and increased resources for existing regulatory bodies, Traffic Commissioners and the Vehicle Inspectorate, were also advocated. It was suggested that the VI carry out more roadside checks and that additional resources would assist the TCs in enforcement.

The Confederation of Passenger Transport UK were sceptical about the appointment of a regulator and said this would add unnecessary and wasteful layers of bureaucracy to the system, but they were in favour of increased powers for TCs and the VI and the rejection of franchising bus services as an alternative to deregulation.

Support for the recommendations came from the Association of Transport Coordinating Officers which felt that the proposals would go a long way towards solving the operational problems arising from unregulated competition. ATCO expressed disappointment at the rejection of bus service franchising as it believed this could transfer on-the-road competition to off-the-road competition.

British Bus announce 533 vehicle order

British Bus has announced its new vehicle order programme for the period April 1996 to April 1997. It calls for a total of 533 new buses which will be spread throughout the group in order to replace Nationals, Atlanteans and VRs. The decision has also been taken that no more Nationals will be repowered.

The largest contingent within the order is a batch of 224 Dennis Dart SLF low floors of which 127 will have Plaxton Pointer bodies and 97 will have a new style of East Lancs body built using the Alusuisse system. Nineteen of the East Lancs examples will be 9.0m long and all the others will be 10.5m. They will be allocated to Kentish Bus, London Links, London & Country, The Shires, Maidstone & District, Midland Red North, North Western, Stevensons and Yorkshire Bus.

East Lancs will also supply Alusuisse bodies on 73 Scania L113s. Minibuses will include 45 Optare MetroRiders, all of which will be the 2.4m wide, 8.4m long model, and 126 Mercedes Benz 709Ds of which 55 will be Alexander Sprints the remaining 71 Plaxton Beavers. Double deckers account for a further 65 vehicles, all of which will be Volvo engined Volvo Olympians with Northern Counties Palatine 1 bodies. Of these 31 will be lowheight models destined for The Shires (10), Midland Fox (13), London & Country (5) and Yorkshire Bus (3). An additional order for a small number of coaches is also planned.

Most of the order, including all of the Dart SLFs will have Euro 2 engines. In line with the British Bus philosophy of strong local identities the exterior colour schemes will not be standardised but in order to facilitate easier transfer of vehicles between companies standardised interiors are being introduced. Holdsworth have designed a special moquette in a choice of either grey or fawn base colours for the company.

Ron Whittle elected 1996 CPT president

Ron Whittle has been appointed president of the Confederation of Passenger Transport UK for 1996, succeeding Ted Hesketh, managing director of Ulsterbus. Ron, the senior partner in Kidderminster based Go Whittle, previously held the position of BCC president in 1981 and is the first person to be elected twice. He will be supported by Tony Depledge - Blackpool Transport, Moir Lockhead - FirstBus, and Dennis Noble - Weirs Tours, as vice presidents.

Ron has had an active career in the industry for over 30 years and was recently president of the International Road Transport Union - having already been president of its passenger transport section. Other notable positions have been as president of the Kidderminster Chamber of Commerce and chairman of the West Midlands Passenger Vehicle Operators' Association.

Commenting on his appointment, Ron said: 'I am very honoured to serve my fellow transport operators in this capacity. The year ahead is a crucial one for the industry and presents us with many challenges and opportunities. It is up to us to convince the Government, once and for all, of the pivotal role that the industry plays in the field of tourism and the national economy in general.'

Suspected arson at Hills of Hersham

A case of suspected arson at the premises of Hills of Hersham has left the company with a seriously depleted fleet. The blaze was spotted by Police in the early hours of Saturday 16 December and the fire crews arrived very quickly but not before five coaches were totally destroyed and two others seriously damaged. No one was hurt in the incident.

Danny Hill said, 'This is absolutely devastating. I just don't know how we are going to carry on and fulfill our contracts. Fortunately we have had some offers of help, notably from Tellings Golden Miller and Repton Coaches, who have been able to take some of the pressure off. One thing I found very disturbing was watching how quickly a coach can become totally engulfed in flames. It has changed my opinion on seat belts. If there had been people on board wearing them they would never have got out. It was a frightening thing to see.'

Hills operate a fleet of 19 vehicles, the majority of which are minibuses. The vehicles damaged or destroyed were all full sized coaches and just one, a Volvo B10M remains operational.

Television viewers may well have noticed an Optimo from Hills' fleet appearing in the Yellow Pages advertisement in which Natalie finally gets the stockings she was promised in the war.

Mainline shareholding to transfer to FirstBus

An Extraordinary General Meeting held by Sheffield's major bus operator, Mainline, has approved and agreed the transfer of the 20% shareholding owned by Stagecoach to FirstBus. The move now awaits the sanction of the Department of Trade & Industry which ordered the divestment of the shareholding earlier this year. No-one from Stagecoach or FirstBus was available to comment on the situation at the time of going to press.

Mike Martin leaves Dennis

Mike Martin, coach sales manager for Dennis Specialist Vehicles since 1990, is to take up the position of operations director for Cheshire Bus & Coach, the expanding vehicle leasing specialists. Prior to joining Dennis, Mike had become involved in coach sales with Yeates, as area manager for London and the south west and later joined Duple as project manager for the integral 425. Before this he ran his own coach company in South Wales.

Mike commented, 'A growing number of operators see leasing as the ideal way of funding vehicle acquisition and I am delighted to be joining a company which in just three years has already made its mark in the supply of vehicles to operators in various parts of the country. My aim is to broaden Cheshire Bus & Coach's customer base and to increase both the number and range of vehicles available on long and short term lease.'

Cheshire Bus & Coach was founded by Simon Fawcett, proprietor of Star Line Coaches until it was sold to British Bus last year.

Scania orders

The first of a batch of ten Scania L113 Axxess Ultralows with Wright bodywork have been delivered to Kentish Bus. Destined for services linking Gravesend and Dartford, the new buses have been partly funded by Kent County Council and the District Councils are improving the layout of pavements at bus stops on the route. Kentish Bus is also providing special disability awareness training for its drivers.

Scania's largest ever order for Taiwan has also been announced. This comprises 50 K113 buses for the Formosa Fairway Corporation featuring locally built bodies. An order from Trans Island Bus Services of Singapore calls for a batch of 15 lowfloor buses which have been specifically designed to meet tough conditions in south east Asia.

Review of 1995

That was the year that was

This is the last Bus & Coach Buyer of 1995 which means that it's time for our traditional look back over the preceding 12 months. 1995 was always going to be a significant year because it marked the centenary of bus operation itself, and how buses have changed since that 5hp Benz, essentially a stagecoach without horses, took to the road. The topics dominating discussion were safety, accessibility, environmental friendliness, the influence of Europe as the Channel Tunnel finally opened for coaches, the inexorable growth of the big groups - be they operators or manufacturers, and changes to the deregulated market including the possibility of some form of re-regulation. Optimism has been reflected in higher registrations though it had to be said that this growth is from a very low base and the average age of vehicles in service continues to rise.

Among operators the biggest groups continued to grow by acquisition and merger. Stagecoach, the biggest, acquired A1 of Ardrossan, Chesterfield Transport, the CHL Group (which included Cambus, Viscount and Milton Keynes Citybus), and its first interests in Portugal. It also placed an order for 1050 buses including articulated coaches, sold Stagecoach Manchester to EYMS and reluctantly divested its 20% stake in Mainline to FirstBus.

The expansion of the Stagecoach Group continued, bringing with it the unwelcome attentions of the Monopolies and Mergers Commission.

British Bus bought Caldaire, the Yellow Bus operations of Motts Travel, the bus operations of Buffalo, Starline and Maidstone & District, but its plans to go for a stock market listing did not come to fruition. The Luton & District operation changed its name to The Shires. The Go Ahead Group bought OK Motor Services and Armstrongs of Ebchester, MTL closed MTL Engineering and bought R&I and Gensam, EYMS bought Hart's Coaches, and Yorkshire Traction consolidated in South Yorkshire with the purchase of Sheffield Omnibus, Yorkshire Terrier and Globe's bus operations.

Badgerline and GRT Holdings merged in April to become FirstBus, later acquiring People's Provincial and reorganising the Rider Group in Yorkshire. Its Brewer's subsidiary acquired the City of Cardiff Coaches fleet while western National bought Lidgey's and Brookside Travel.

The major groups found that acquisitions were becoming increasingly difficult to accomplish because most attracted the attentions of the Monopolies and Mergers Commission. In May Stagecoach was ordered to divest of its 20% stake in SBH Holdings (Strathclyde Buses) but it was still fighting this as we went to press and complaining bitterly about facing the same commission chairman in five successive references. The Government's handling of the consolidation issue is hardly a model of consistency.

South London, the last of the former London Buses subsidiaries, was sold to the Cowie Group where it joined Grey Green and Leaside Buses, while Westlink was sold by WMT to London United, WMT having merged with National Express in April.

Three axle coaches became more popular in 1995 with the Scania K113TRB Irizar Century selling well.

1995 marked the Dennis Centenary. Among a bevy of new models was this high floor Javelin.

Review of 1995

WMT subsequently ordered 150 new Wright Volvos, and a succession of senior personnel departed including Don Colston, Brian Kerslake and Joe Duffy while November saw National Express chairman Ray McEnhill announce his intention to stand down.

There were changes of ownership for coaching concerns with Armchair the subject of an MBO, Brents sold to Metroline, Capital Coaches acquiring AMR, and Ashford Luxury buying Windsorian. Shearings ordered 35 Volvos for 1996 and shortly afterwards announced the sale of its maintenance facilities to Volvo which is to take on responsibility for maintaining the entire coaching fleet.

The announcement of a third lane ban for coaches with effect from 1 January 1996 showed the Government's knee-jerk reactions at their worst, condemning coaches to be trapped among lorries limited to 56mph, a morally indefensible act which will do nothing for coach safety. This was one of the items of legislation which led a small group of operators and manufacturers to form The Coach Association, though its narrow constituency must weaken its message. Most operators buying new specified seat belts but considerable confusion remains over the issue, especially with regard to retrofitting and installation in minibuses.

MANUFACTURERS AND PRODUCTS

1995 was not only the centenary of the bus itself, it was the centenary for the UK's last remaining major bus and coach chassis manufacturer, now known as Dennis Specialist Vehicles. The company celebrated with a Ride & Drive Day, a book and a wide variety of new products including high floor and three axle versions of the Javelin, a CNG powered Dart and perhaps most significantly, the low floor Dart SLF which has already gained more than 100 orders. Dennis was not the only manufacturer to have reached this most significant milestone, 1995 also saw the centenary of the Hungarian manufacturer, Ikarus.

Walter Alexander, the UK's biggest bus bodywork builder was acquired by the Mayflower group and former managing director Ian Galloway, who had done much through his chairmanship of the SMMT's PSV Committee to further the interests of operators, left a few months later. The fortunes of Plaxton were at a high with production levels rising dramatically. Henlys, parent company of Plaxton Coach & Bus acquired Northern Counties of Wigan and announced at the same time that it was acquiring 49% of the Canadian coach and caravan manufacturer, Prevost, with Volvo Bus gaining the 51% stake. Volvo has also established a joint venture with Merkavim in Israel although the investment of £6.5 million at Irvine and the promise of Scottish built B10Ms was of more interest to the home market. Volvo also sold the Farington works of the former Leyland empire to Albion Automotive. Kassbohrer Setra and Mercedes Benz finally joined forces within a new company called Evobus, though both are to retain their separate identities.

Newcomers to the British market included the Portuguese manufacturer, Marcopolo which began selling its Explorer coach on the Dennis Javelin chassis through DSB Sales. Iveco has been around quite a while on the bus front but showed its determination to become a force in coach sales with the appointment of the AW Group as UK distributors. The Spanish built EuroRider with Beulas body is already picking up sales and other manufacturers are expected to body the design in the coming year. Though it was announced last year, Setra delivered the first S250 Specials, one of which won the 1995 UK Coach of the Year title at the Brighton Coach Rally. The European Coach of the Year trophy was won by the Volvo Drogmoller B12.600 which is unfortunately not available in the UK. At the other extreme of the market interest in lower cost coaches appeared to be developing with Caetano's launch of the Porto and UVG (formerly W.S.Coach-builders)'s introduction of the Unistar. Coachbuilt minibus options increased with the launch of Autobus Clasique's Nouvelle and the Cacciamali Ibis. New names on show at the NEC included Spartan and Tata.

I mentioned in the opening paragraph the growth in the popularity of low floor designs and 1995 was certainly the watershed year in which low floor became affordable for commercial operations. Working with Wrights, Volvo launched the B6LE Crusader, initially as a 10.6 metre midi, and the same body manufacturer collaborated with Scania to develop the L113 Axxess Ultralow. Wrights has plans in place which will considerably increase its capacity for 1996. After unveiling its Prisma body on the Mercedes 0405, Optare was even more adventurous with the launch of its new Excel low floor integral design, and also sold the 2000th Metrorider. A surprise at Coach & Bus '95 was Marshall's new Mini, another interesting low floor alternative. Dennis is already finding interest in the Dart SLF is far greater than in the longer Lance SLF. Winner of the European Bus of the Year title was the Neoplan N4114DE which combines a low floor throughout with a diesel electric drive system.

Not only were low floor buses being ordered in growing numbers, we also experienced deliveries of guide arm equipped buses with the first operational stretches of guided busway opening in Ipswich and Leeds, while

The Volvo Drogmoller B12.600 was voted European Coach of the Year.

Volvo and Wright launched the B6LE Crusader, 11 of which were bought by Mainline.

Plaxton and Dennis completed a natural gas powered Dart Pointer for FirstBus with Southampton Citybus scheduled to take ten shortly. The Budget reduced the tax burden on alternative fuels including LPG and CNG but considerable doubt remains as to whether this will result in a significant impact on operator's bus buying policies. The publication of a new edition of the NFBU's Clean & Green Bus Guide showed that operators are increasingly concerned about the all round quality of the vehicles they provide for customers.

We had expected to know the final contents of the European bus directive which seeks to harmonise buses throughout the EC, but this has been delayed. In the meantime the Disability Discrimination Bill, Euro 2 and DiPTAC 1997 are all exerting an influence on bus design.

PEOPLE

This was not one of those rare years in which we finished up with the same Secretary of State for Transport that we started with, Sir George Young taking over from Brian Mawhinney who became Conservative party chairman. At the CPT, Ted Hesketh had a hectic year as president which also saw him promoted to head both Northern Ireland's bus and rail operations as they are re-integrated. Ted has been succeeded by Ron Whittle who is well able to argue the coach operator's corner at a time when safety issues and the burden of Euro legislation are important items on the agenda.

Among those whose considerable efforts were recognised were Trevor Smallwood, chairman of Firstbus and former CPT/BCC chairman who received the OBE, Henlys acquired Northern Counties who built this Palatine II on a DAF DB250 chassis.

Ian Galloway who was similarly decorated and Caroline Cahm, chairman of the NFBU who was awarded the CBE.

Among those who made their mark on the industry who died during the year were Hugh Delaine Smith who had been awarded the CBE in the new year's honours list, John Jeffs, Ernie Waterman, Eric Plaxton, and Trevor Carnell.

We at Bus & Coach Buyer have had to say a few farewells. One of the original team who started the title, Lone Kirkwood, left us in the Spring when her husband's job went south, and Amanda Smith also moved on. Newcomers to the team include advertising manager Jerry Thurston and on classified telephone sales, Joanne Brown. Recognising his important role within the editorial team, Martin Cole became technical editor.

THANK YOU

So much happened in 1995 that mentioning everything would be impossible. In compiling this issue I have looked back over the 51 editions and apart from wondering how we managed to find the time to cover all that we did, I was reminded that it has been another enjoyable year in which it has been a great privilege to work with you all. We have lots of ideas for interesting articles to bring you in the future, we won't be charging operators to receive it and we'll be continuing to deliver the most comprehensive selection of vehicles for sale that there is. Thank you on behalf of everyone at Bus & Coach Buyer for your continuing support, we hope you have a happy Christmas and a healthy and prosperous 1996.

Operator Focus

Mike de Courcey Travel

Mike de Courcey, the proprietor of Mike de Courcey Travel, harbours an ultimate ambition to operate a fleet of 50 vehicles. Over the past 25 years from starting with just one bus and one coach he now operates 38 and believes that he will eventually realise his aim. The current fleet encompasses 13 buses, two dual purpose coaches and 23 touring coaches with a balance of work split 80% on private hire and 20% under contract.

Maintaining a competitive business has not been an easy road for the company as it has always faced stiff competition in acquiring its bus operations and, until recently, a plethora of local coach operators ensured private hire rates had to be lean and keen. The economic climate has seen many of the smaller coach concerns disappear over the last few years and Mike believes that 18 such companies have ceased trading or sold their interests since the beginning of the recession. Of those that sold out, a number went to companies that have had little or no interest in maintaining a coach operation and there now appears to be greater potential in the area to make adequate profits.

Mike commented, 'There are not so many of us now and in some ways that has proved better but it is still competitive out there. Our challenge has been to survive in the face of adversity, and that is what we have done. We've achieved it by keeping things simple, not by sticking our necks out too far and tackling aspects of the industry that we didn't fully understand. Our buses operate largely on tendered work and the coaches stick to private hires and excursions. We don't put on tour programmes because I think they can only be properly marketed through travel shops. We have never had such a facility and it is one that is catered for very well in Coventry by the likes of Harry Shaw, who are specialists at that sort of work.'

Mike's interest in coaches sprang from his opportunity to become a part time driver in the late 1960s. This kindled a strong desire to become an operator and in 1970 he got the chance to buy into a partnership. The association proved to have been a mistake and lasted just two years before Mike ended up starting on his own with a double decker bus and a coach based in Tile Hill. A couple of small tenders went with the bus and a contract with the coach and this work was very soon expanded upon as the company's reputation grew.

Steady and sustained growth saw the fleet grow to eight vehicles and there was need for more but the Tile Hill premises severely restricted much needed expansion. By 1979 Mike could remain there no longer and acquired a two acre site adjacent to Coventry Airport on the outskirts of the city, moving the operation there in April 1980. This gave the company all the room it required and facilities were built to cater for a sizeable operation. The workshops include four bays, two with pits, one with hard standing for mobile column lifts and a fourth which is equipped with brake testing rollers for MoT preparation. Fuelling, steam cleaning and vehicle washing facilities were situated close to the entrance and new offices built to cater for operational and administration duties.

Two acres provides a significant amount of spare space, even today, and so sections are sometimes used for other enterprises or let to outside businesses. A considerable amount of Arlington stock was once held there and currently half an acre is rented by a vehicle recovery specialist. At present Mike uses a further half acre to store caravans. Security fencing surrounds the site and surveillance cameras have been installed which monitor the premises continually. There are also security staff who patrol at night.

Business began to expand quite quickly, particularly through UK and continental excursions but when deregulation came Mike decided to run the buses entirely on tendered operations and latterly ran Coventry's park and ride system for three years. This was lost to Stagecoach earlier this year but Mike managed to obtain a network of routes for Warwickshire County Council which required nine buses and so the loss was cushioned a little. The new contract called for the introduction of two new buses and it was decided to opt for the new Iveco TurboCity. Mike has been quite impressed by their fuel economy and they are popular with his drivers.

These new Ivecos represent a major departure from the company's traditional policy which is largely based on Leyland and Volvo products. The majority of the double deckers in the fleet are Leyland Atlanteans, there are some single deck Leopards and the coaches are a mixture of Tigers and Volvo B10Ms up to the Mark II version. The progression towards Volvo had been a logical step since its acquisition of Leyland. The close location of Coventry to the Volvo headquarters means that any urgent spares requirement can be quickly catered for.

In fact, the location of the company is, Mike believes, as near ideal as possible. It is remote enough from the city not to cause problems with local residents but it has a great network of motorways running very close. It takes just a few minutes to gain access to the M69, M40, M45 and M42. This makes it very easy to move around and to despatch vehicles efficiently.

The close proximity to the airport also sparked a new idea for travel services and Mike began operating an air service to Ireland. He chartered an aircraft which flew every Saturday from Luton to Knock, Knock to Coventry, Coventry to Knock and Knock to Luton. Demand for the service was such that additional flights were made available at peak times which included Christmas, Easter and Whitsun. Its success also attracted the attention of other air service operators and eventually stiff competition from Ryan Air forced Mike to abandon the idea after two years. Operating the service had been great fun and a real challenge, one which Mike would be happy to exploit again should the opportunity arise.

Services to Ireland were not entirely new to De Courcey Travel as a regular express coach service had been providing a link for years. Mike began by offering a service linking London with Mayo back in the 1970s and this was later revised to run from the Midlands to Cork via Pembroke in the early 1980s. Although the company still have vehicles regularly transporting passengers bound for Ireland they are now operated just at peak holiday periods for Slattery's and run from London to Holyhead.

Mike recalls his first ever jaunt to the continent as 'a very memorable trip' from which he learned a lot about operating abroad in a short space of time. The trip took in France, Switzerland and Italy, lasting 12 days. He said, 'I did an awful lot of homework before we went and quizzed other people as much as possible so that I could smooth the passage. Getting used to different regulations and languages is not an easy step and we struggled at times but ended up coming home safely. It isn't something that we would allow an inexperienced driver to do now. They go on a few trips now with experienced staff before they are expected to cope on their own. Things are a bit different now anyway, you can't do the hours that we once used to and so taking a relief driver to learn the ropes is practical sense.' Driver training is an aspect of the business which has also turned commercial since the re-opening of the Driver Training Unit in 1993. Two of the staff are qualified to BCT instructor requirements and are engaged in in-house as well as commercial training. During B&CB's visit to Mike de Courcey Travel, a presentation of NVQ level II certificates was made at a Coventry hotel. Debbie Minor, Adrian Catesby and Paul Ridley were awarded their qualifications by Coventry's deputy Lord Mayor at a ceremony also attended by BCT's business development manager, Mark Griffin. A further seven drivers from the company are in the process of taking the course and others will be joining the NVQ scheme in time.

Mike commented, 'We are obviously very pleased to have had such success and the course is proving itself attractive to other operators and potential bus or coach drivers. They are an important part of the business because they are the face of the company which is seen by the customer and so their attitudes and abilities are what the name and reputation stands on. Running a training operation does give some insight as to who is attempting to become a driver and we have noticed that those who will never really be compatible with the job can be weeded out very early. We inform them as early as possible and advise they look elsewhere for employment. The industry does not need dragging down any further than it has been and this system is giving us a golden opportunity to ensure quality standards rise.'

Mark Griffin quantified the achievement of the drivers by saying, 'Around 4000 candidates have now achieved NVQ level II and although this is only a small percentage of the total number of PCV drivers it is a significant achievement. The driver is a most important person for the company and its image and their achievement of high standards of professional care and ability can bring business benefits.'

The de Courcey fleet contains a wide variety of vehicles but all are based on Leyland or Volvo.

One commercial venture that Mike is not keen to repeat concerned running an open top double decker. Having seen a growth in popularity for some elements of the industry with the introduction of sightseeing or historic tours, he believed that there may have been sufficient interest in Coventry. This did not turn out to be the case and it was difficult to generate any enthusiasm. He said, 'Coventry is not really seen as a centre for either heritage or architectural beauty. There are just not enough visitors in the city, especially on a Sunday, and despite efforts to attract visitors we cannot compete with Warwick or Stratford. They are able to draw high numbers of tourists for most of the year. Coventry has its cathedral but not much else and so we could not make it pay.'

Coventry's football team is also experiencing a lean spell at present but De Courcey Travel fares better with providing coaches for its supporters. On the day of B&CB's visit the team met Wolverhampton Wanderers away in a cup match which saw some fourteen coaches drafted in for the event.

A great deal of additional coach work has come from recently won contracts to supply transport for the University of Warwick. This involves journeys to and from the campus with students, field trips and sporting events. Carrying the sports teams means a considerable number of trips on Wednesdays and is very useful mid-week work. The operation of a couple of coaches with wheelchair lifts has been an added attraction for the university as well as proving commercially viable in its own right. Mike feels that the lifts offer a degree of flexibility to meet all demands and as the coaches can be operated as ordinary 53 seaters when the lifts are not required, they don't lose him any business - only bring additional work in.

To cater for improvements and efficiencies within the organisation, Mike is having the office block extended and will upgrade the bookings and communications departments. Every bus or coach leaving the yard is equipped with either a two-way radio or a mobile telephone, a system which has operated successfully for some years and saved hours in lost time. Bookings are being placed on a more efficient footing by installing the Coach Manager computerised package from Distinctive Systems. This should be operational in early 1996.

Although the company does not have policy for acquiring new vehicles on a regular basis, it does place a great emphasis on safety and maintenance. Three of the fleet are scheduled into the workshop every week and are given thorough inspections so that any worn parts can be identified and replaced. This work is additional to the usual servicing and any interim failures that drivers report. Mike admits that the bills are often high when operating older vehicles but he is not fighting depreciation on the same scale as those with more modern vehicles. He also proudly points out the company's impeccable safety record which shows nothing more than three minor infringements and no prohibitions.

The company competes aggressively for tenders but not commercial services.

The company has survived through the toughest of times recently seen in Coventry. It has maintained its status as a coach operation and by competing only for tendered bus work has not had to engage in bus wars with other operators. Buyout attempts from large groups were also resisted and it would now seem that there is considerable potential for profitable growth in the area. Mike is insistent that the quality of operation should be improved and this underlies the company's commitment to training to raise skill levels, develop overall professionalism, improve customer care relationships and build a better reputation for the industry in the eyes of the customer.

Plaxton Supreme/Paramount Duple Dominant II, III and IV, as well as rarities such as Moseley Alpha.

For operators who require obsolete glass for older/unusual vehicles WEALDEN'S stock includes various examples from the 1960's and 1970's if the requirement is not stocked every effort will be made to locate the glass utilising the company's extensive knowledge/contracts, built-up during the past 15 years. Nationwide delivery is available as well as a fitting service at Five Oak Green. A complete range of second-hand chassis/bodywork spares is also available from WEALDEN PSV. Redundant or incomplete damaged vehicles are purchased as well as obsolete/unwanted glass.

With their stage carriage and contracts operation WEALDEN Beeline. The Co's directors Paul Richman and Julian Brown are able to appreciate the problems caused when vehicle availability is affected by broken or damaged glazing. Savings both financial and in down-time can be made by taking advantage of WEALDEN'S services.

Simply telephone WEALDEN PSV SALES AND SPARES on 01892 833830 or FAX on 01892 836977 for prompt and efficient attention.

There's no need to look any further for replacement glass.

You've already found everything you are looking for in a replacement glass distributor.

As Europe's largest stockist of laminated screens and toughened side glass, PSV is the only distributor capable of meeting the needs of every bus and coach operator in the UK.

Sourced from the original parts suppliers or direct from glass manufacturers, all products conform to E43r or BS857, or both.

PSV is the first specialist coach and bus glass distributor to be assessed and certified by the BSI (Europe's most exacting quality assurance body) to ISO 9000.

Free next day nationwide delivery is normal, with an emergency same day VOR option available at a small additional charge.

Every customer has access to PSV's full technical support service.

And above all, competitive pricing means that, to our knowledge, we will never be undersold for the same product and service.
